One man at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery stands out not only as a dedicated educator, but also as a man of sympathy, understanding and humor. To Walter L. In Memoriam

ROBERT HAROLD OSTER

B. S., M. S., PH. D.

The student body, both present and future, have suffered a lamentable loss in the untimely death of Robert H. Oster, Professor of Physiology, in January, 1960, of lung cancer. Since 1949 when Physiology became a separate and self-contained laboratory course with its own staff, Dr. Oster had been the Chief of that staff, and had helped many students with many problems, both physiological and personal.

A person whose most remarkable characteristics included a love of teaching, a very deep personal interest in all young people and a truly sincere interest in all things scientific, Dr. Oster came to the school unusually well prepared for his teaching post. He was a graduate electrical engineer from Penn State University, where he taught physics for a number of years. His Ph.D. was taken in physiology at Harvard, where he had taught medical students all of his graduate years there. He taught on the staff of both medical and dental courses here at Maryland until he attained his professorship in 1948.

During the decade in which he headed the Department of Physiology, there have not been any failures on the National Boards in his discipline, a cogent factor in the student regard. His was a philosophy that always allowed time for a student to freely discuss personal problems, or for an extensive elaboration on an abstruse point in physiology. He tried most earnestly to maintain a high level of academic excellence in not only his own teaching, but also that of his assisting staff. He recognized the lack of practical application in physiology when taught from the basic science perspective, and attempted to remedy this by keeping on the teaching staff at all times clinical men, both an M.D. and a D.D.S., to provide the applied physiology instruction.

The students take this opportunity to pay tribute to Professor Robert H. Oster in due cognizance of his life-time dedication to professional school teaching, and his many years of invaluable service, both personal and professional, to dental students.

As graduation approaches there are many thoughts running through our minds of which graduation is naturally the most dominant. Graduation marks not only the end of a long, long struggle but acts also as a turning point to begin, so we are told, a greater challenge. At the present, however, we shall gladly recognize this new challenge of carving our place in the dental profession.

Graduation is also a time when we realize what close friendships we have developed within our class.

In the past decade we have all gone through several phases of forming close friendships, parting, making new friends, and parting again. This cycle began when we graduated from high school to go our separate ways to college, the armed forces, or a job. Eventually we were all screened through various colleges and funnelled into the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. Here during the past four years we have become a closely knit group with a common interest. In this respect our association differs from those we have had previously. This togetherness has not been confined to the classrooms, labs and clinics but has also formed the basis for our social life while attending dental school.

Now that we have completed our indoctrination into dentistry we again go our separate ways. However, this time we shall not really be separated if we do not wish to be. The dental profession will serve as a bond between us provided we take an active part in our profession.

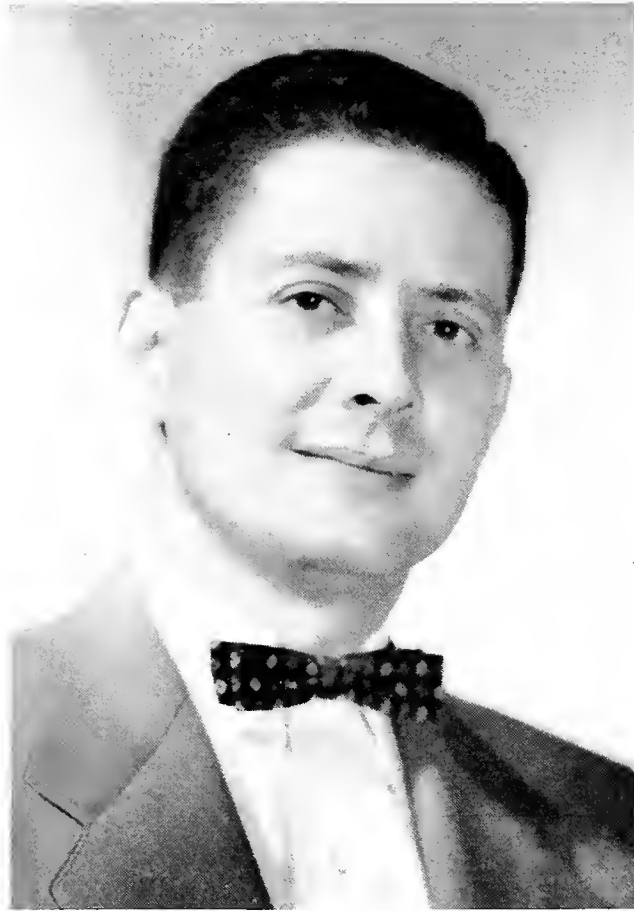

This means that we should become active members of the Alumni Association of the B.C.D.S. and support and participate in the activities of local, regional and national dental organizations. These serve not only as a means of continuing our education but also as a way of keeping in touch with one another.

I think you will agree that in the future the most welcome sight at any dental meeting will be that of an old classmate.

HONORARY PRESIDENT

of the

CLASS OF 1960

Jose Enrique Medina, D.D.S.

Every graduating class has the distinct pleasure to select its honorary president. This year we have chosen a man whom we highly respect as a dentist, a teacher, and a gentleman. His desire for thoroughness, his complete fairness, his profound knowledge of dentistry, his constant willingness to help anyone who seeks his advice, and his unquestionable integrity will be a part of us in our future years. We, the graduating seniors, are proud to have Dr. Medina as honorary president of our class.

Having completed our hectic pre-clinic years, we of the Junior Class anxiously awaited the chance to sink our first bur in the clinic. For some, this exotic thrill came during the cool and comfortable summer, while others were precluded from this ecstasy until the start of the school year. Before long, the idea of drilling in a responsive mouth was no longer a mere thought but a reality. The only difference was that the ideal cavity preparation is found only in books; pulp chambers always seem to be in the wrong places, and it was impossible to buy a new tooth.

Throughout the entire year there could be heard the familiar cries—"Who has an extra gold patient?" and "I'll trade you a pathology for a lower root canal." The "gas" seemed insurmountable. In fact, the patient situation was so critical that members of the class could be found frequenting various spots along the "Great White Way."

A familiar sight would be the hard-working junior, in his clean white gown, drinking coffee while trying to figure out what happened to his one o'clock patient. Yes, cancellations, stand-ups, and inability to get a chair predominated throughout the entire year. When the warm weather of spring was in the air, the reality was at hand, "How am I ever going to complete my requirements by June?"

In spite of all the worry, time was found to have a very successful social year. Saturday evening was nearly always celebrated by a party of some sort at the various fraternity houses. Those juniors who were extremely fortunate were able to continue their celebrations into Sunday while cheering the Colts on to victory at Memorial Stadium. The major social event of the year was the very successful Junior Class Dance.

Regardless of the days that have gone before us, we are now anxiously awaiting the start of our fourth and final year. It just wouldn't be enjoyable without the presence of many obstacles, so that a feeling of accomplishment can be deeply experienced when we finally obtain our diplomas.

The class was made deeply sorrowful by the tragic and untimely death of our class historian, Keith G. Lown, of Fresno, California. On February 25, 1960, Keith was fatally injured in an automobile accident. On March 1, while funeral services were being held in California, a simple but sincere ceremony was held in Hall 37 with members of the junior class and faculty in attendance.

Keith is survived by his wife and two-year-old daughter. We mourn the loss of a classmate, friend and gentleman. Our deepest sympathy is extended to his parents, his wife, Charlotte, and his daughter, Kimberly.

Returning invigorated from a first-year campaign which saw its ranks depleted by fifteen, the Class of 1962 renewed its four-year battle for the coveted degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery. This class began its second year as, perhaps, the most solid and united group the School has ever seen.

From the most simplex virus to the most complex bridge, this great class brilliantly and tactfully encountered each and every challenge in its path to the clinic floor.

In operative dentistry we all managed to visualize the principles of cavity preparation. As we ascended to the heights of Mt. Olympus for sessions with the greater gods and attacks by forces of armed bacteria, our stalwart group remained steadfast. We ventured into the unknown jungle of retainers, pontics, abuments, and crowns." Teeth setting-up," better known as full-denture prosthesis, provided impetus to our work, for it was learned that this is the "bread and butter" of dentistry. We won't forget the many prayers offered with our animal sacrifices to the greater beings. Safe in the knowledge that they had contributed to the betterment of science, these small ruffians appeared happier at the prospect of our weekly activities with them. And finally we recall the tense moments as we struggled to imitate the great orators of the past, for we may have been privileged to hear a Clay or Lincoln of the future.

It is hoped that the strength accumulated over this year and the last will carry the Class of 1962 gloriously through the hallowed portals into the professional world.

September 21, 1959 was the day when one female and ninety-seven male freshmen entered the building of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery ready for registration and orientation. These potential dental students were soon initiated into the dental curriculum by their prospective dental professors.

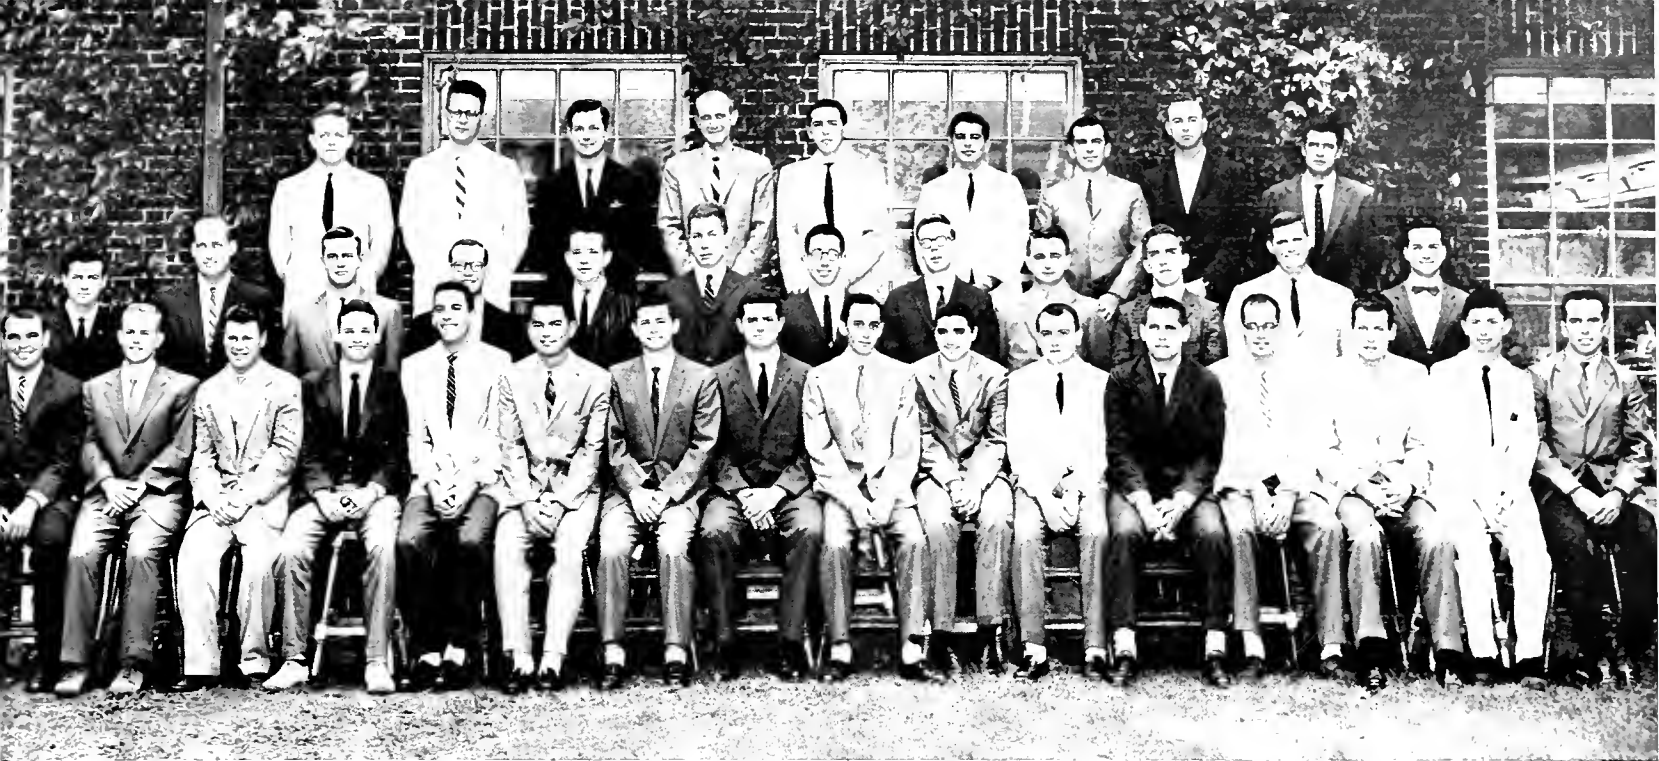

Most of the class are from the Eastern states, but students from as far west as California and as far south as Puerto Rico help make us this class.

With September almost over as classes began, we managed to pull through that month and stumble into October after duly being initiated into our routines, habits of the professors and a beginning series of tests which never seemed to cease for us eager freshmen, who remained "gassed" to the utmost from the first Histology test onward.

Our class was unique and we proved this distinction by doing a wonderful job with the new methods and types of instruction given to us by the school. During our Thanksgiving holidays, most of us impressed our families back home by studying for Histology and relating to wide-eyed listeners some of our dental knowledge; such as care of the cadaver, intercartilagenous bone development and handling of alginate impression material!

As the weeks kept flying by, our "spare" time, such as the lunch hour and Thursday and Friday afternoons, was spent in trying to manipulate dental materials while Dr. Ramsey read the paper to us, or in Biochemistry laboratory titrating to the end point. Let us not forget our invigorating climb to the sixth floor, known to all of us as Mt. Olympus, and our experiences in Anatomy laboratory where we always looked forward to words of wisdom: "I think you boys would benefit by looking that up in Gray's."

Yes, our schedule was full and difficult, but we realized the necessity of having an extensive curriculum. Regardless of the tasks given to us, we managed to finish up our freshman year—a year full of progress and fine accomplishments—a year never to be forgotten.

The Student Senate was organized in 1952 with the primary objective of serving as a liaison between the student body and the faculty. The Student Senate is composed of three representatives from each class: the president and a representative from each section. Throughout the year this organization endeavors to harmonize Student-Faculty relations and to consider any problems that arise within the student body. In addition, the Student Senate contributes much to student life and activities. Five dances are planned for the school year: a Student Senate Mixer and four individual class dances. Tournaments are annually scheduled in golf, table tennis, and softball. Publication of the Student Handbook and the maintenance of budgets to administer the spending of student funds are controlled and planned by the Student Senate.

The purpose of the I.F.C. is to create and maintain interfraternal feelings throughout the student body and to impartially govern those activities of the fraternities connected with school regulations. As in the past, the I.F.C. has sponsored the intramural athletic programs, along with the awards for the outstanding participants. These athletic awards and the I.F.C. award to the outstanding senior contributor to student activities were presented at the I.F.C. Award Banquet.

The I.F.C. also administrated the rushing procedures, a program which met with great success again this year.

Along with its other functions, the I.F.C. is a common meeting ground for all the fraternities where problems common to all may be discussed.

The I.F.C. is an organization with a heart, for in addition to its other achievements, it has donated a substantial sum to the family of a departed brother—Keith Lown—an added testimonial of the power of fraternal feeling and concern at a time when it was most needed and appreciated.

gorgas odontological society

Membership in the Gorgas Odontological Society signifies outstanding academic achievement and leadership in our school and in our profession. Each year, invitations for membership are given to those juniors who stand in the first thirty percent of their class.

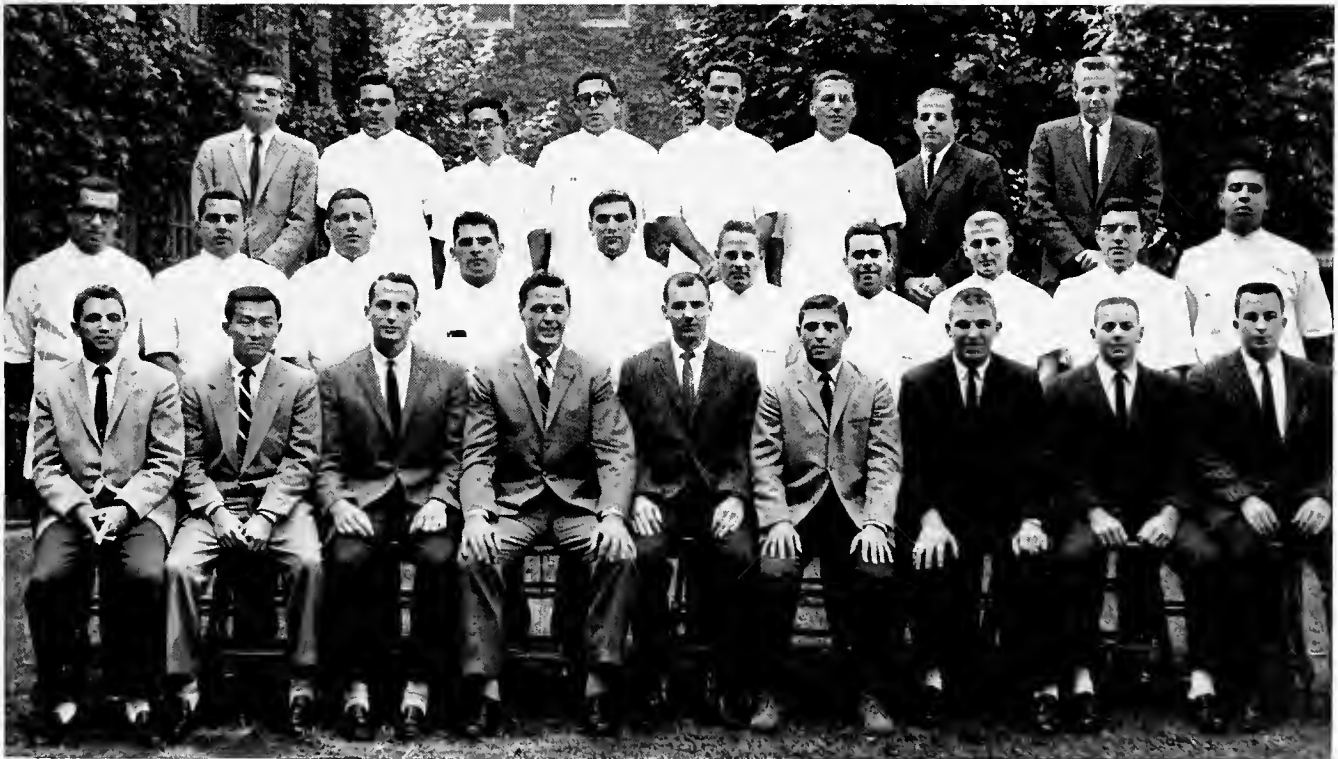

The Society, formed in 1916, is named in honor of Dr. Ferdinand J. S. Gorgas, an outstanding graduate of our school who was a widely recognized leader in the field of dental education and a very important contributor to the literature.

Monthly meetings afford members educational opportunities not presented in the curriculum.

Social activities are enjoyed periodically throughout the school year. Foremost among these is the Spring Dinner-Dance, when Junior members are awarded keys and certificates are presented to Senior members.

BOWLING CHAMPIONS

Levin, M. A., Snyder, Coulton, Levy, Fliss.

BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

Smith, J. J., Ruxtherford, Mastrola, Brady, Sears, McLaughlin.

After many years of inactivity, the game of basketball returned to the B.C.D.S. This time, through the combined efforts of the other professional schools in the area, an inter-professional schools league was formed. Although just an enamel-rod shy of being a second NBA, the league was well balanced and many fine games resulted. However, as in most organized leagues, one team stood out well above the rest. Of the six teams entered by the B.C.D.S. the squad composed of our present seniors, Tom Rutherford, Rudy Strambi, Joe Smith, John McLaughlin, Roger Sears, Bill Brady and Frank Mastrola, had the smoothness of a pulpal wall, the shine of an amalgam polished with tin oxide, and the teamwork necessary to fill out Dr. Shay's laboratory reports. Led by sharpshooting Tom Rutherford, who averaged 20 points per game, the Seniors went undefeated in the Dental School Division of the league, and represented the B.C.D.S. in the Professional Schools Basketball Tournament. Again, showing outstanding teamwork, excellent ball control, and high scoring capabilities, the Seniors defeated the Law School team—quite legally—by 20 points, and then went on to clinch the championship by dissecting the Medical School five. Tom, Roger and Joe were the only three team members that had any previous experience.

The annual bowling tournament got off to an early start in the fall and before the awards were given to the top team and outstanding individual stars in May, some seventy games were bowled. The AO I took honors by winning fifty-four games. Led by Hersh Levy, Marty Levin, Mike Coulton, Al Snyder and Shel Fliss, the AO bowlers showed their class by placing all five members among the top ten league leaders. Cigar-smoking Hersh Levy, wise-cracking with every shot, was top bowler for the season with a 105 average. Frank Bragg, Psi O, had the high game of the season of 137, while Levy turned in the top three-game set of 372. AO I took the seasonal high set with a one-night total of 1495. The championship had to be decided by a play-off between AO I and Psi O. Previous to the match Psi O held an advantage in games won over AO I, but rising to championship heights, AO I took two straight and the title for 1960.

I'm damned fed up with these dental suppliers and your new fangled contraptions.

clinics

We students of B.C.D.S. are attending a school which is considered a mecca of dental history, steeped in dental tradition. We all know that our School is the oldest dental school in the World, but we may not know that its graduates through the years, even to the present, have helped to shape dentistry into the position of professional esteem that it occupies today.

We students of B.C.D.S. should be proud, not only of our past tradition but also of the advances the School is making in modern technology. The Operative and Crown and Bridge Departments are using air turbines. Some of the newest techniques of impression taking, roentgenology, crown and bridge, periodontics and endodontics are being taught. The Oral Medicine and Pedodontic Departments will soon get improved quarters and new equipment. We the students of the B.C.D.S. have much to be proud of.

diagnosis

I have studied the problem for years, and there is only one way to get more pedo patients into the school.

I wouldn't say this cavity is too large for foil. Let's just say the tooth is too small.

What do you mean a buccal pit foil! This should be a MODBL onlaying all the cusps.

roentgenology

You got a nice picture of the lip;
now let's try for the teeth.

What makes you think for a bite wing you only use the tab with no film?

Heads you go; tails I'll get the coffee.

oral medicine

No, I'm not trying to develop a greaseless hair tonic, just a good mouthwash.

Little does he know that I've soaked his point in S. aureus.

I didn't get out of the office till one a. m.

crown and bridge

Only way to fix that preparation is with forceps.

Don't let Ernie see this.

We no check margin wif finganail.

pedodontics

Let me think about this for a while.

Just for fun, I'm not checking it off.

That's perfect, Mr. Gruen, just perfect.

prosthetic

One of these days I'll find a student that has his own indelible pencil.

Now, when you solder your gold ladder to this inlay be sure to—

If the uppers fall down and the lowers ride up, just reverse 'em.

dentistry

That's a nice impression of the nose.

You say you're not having any trouble eating bananas.

Now that isn't the way William did it with Dr. Gaver.

operative

My lecture came from Black's Operative book. Only thing I add is my Chinese accent.

On second thought, I can't let you cement that foil, but I will help you put in another one.

Now I want you to shank out this wall to a sharp flank.

dentistry

That's enough polish, let me check it off.

Dat is da world's worst.

My hand gets so tired from signing charts. I'm going to get a rubber stamp.

surgery

They're just not taking X-rays like they used to.

Of course you have anesthesia. I'm the best east of the Mississippi.

Come on, fella, my pitch game's already started.

orthodontics

Good, I just found another definition of malocclusion.

Now, the question here is—Do we move the upper teeth back or the lowers forward?

Honey, does Man Tan really work?

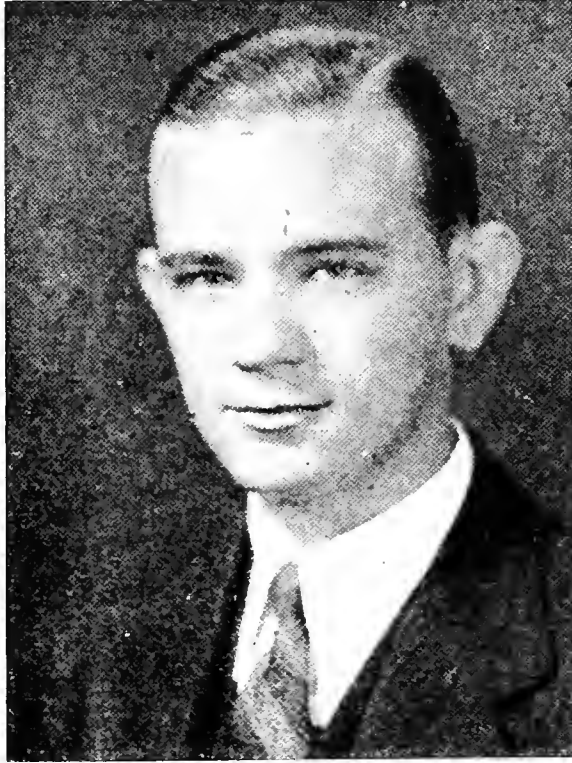

features

faculty

The pictures on these two pages are the graduation pictures of some of the members of our faculty, along with captions which may aid in their identification.

Hi Fi to cement bridges by.

"That Beall's Packer is not a part of the endo tray set-up, Doctor."

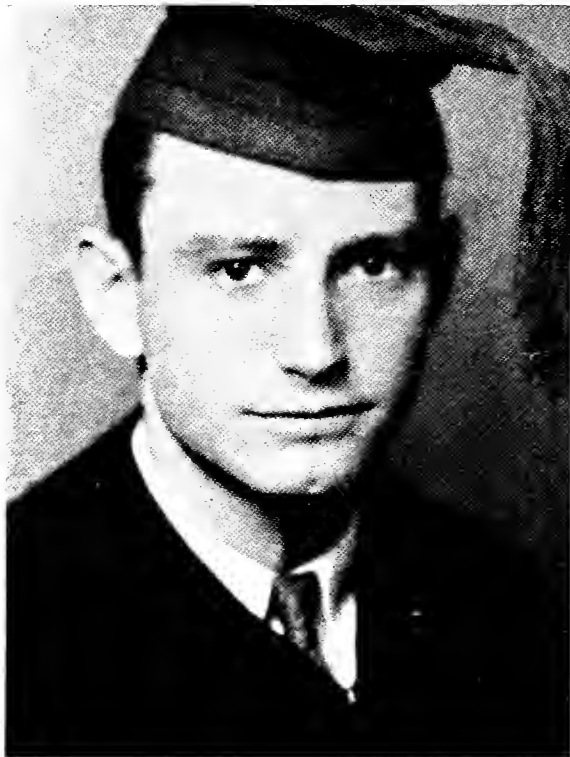

"I've seen everything there is to diagnose."

Three loops in the aspirator hose, cotton balls on the floor, wet X-rays in the mount—what will become of these lads?

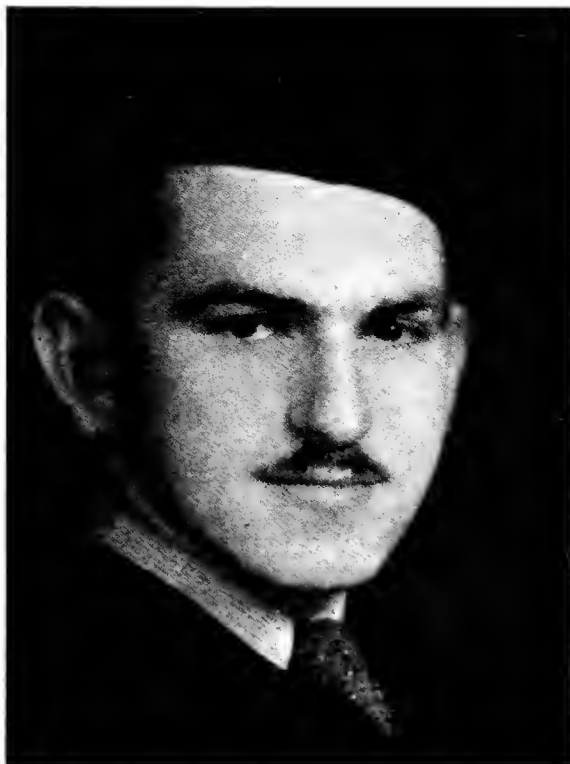

flashbacks

"If you want to do a real dental service, close the school."

Prosthetics, Philosophy and a friendly smile.

"I don't think we'll give back your endoforms 'til the end of the year."

This picture should be the easiest to identify, for he has helped in freshman labs, in sophomore labs and even in junior labs. The seniors say his bark is worse than his bite.

Now if you are a traveling bent,
Pray have it done before we mix cement.
So bounce along with all the vim of youth,
But please RELAX when in the tooth!!

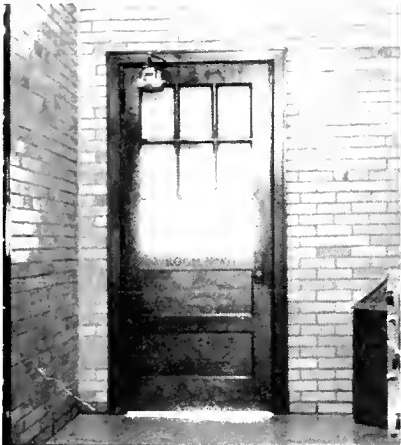

A Student's Psalm

The Anatomy Prof is my shepherd and I should not flunk—
He maketh me to sit down beside the specimen and dissect—
He showeth me the things I should cut, and should not cut—
He jogs my memory and maketh me to remember many things for their names' sake—Yea, though I work two hours
daily in the dissecting room,
I shall fear no nausea, for I have quit eating meat.
He prepareth a quiz for me in the midst of many skeletons—
He anointeth my head with encouragement, but my bean has long ago undergone calcification.
Surely flunks and conditions shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall be a student in dental science forever.

a Denture is an Emotional Experience...

... and the natural patient symptoms of fear and depression can be greatly reduced, and sometimes overcome, by skillful use of the many elements in the Trubyte Esthetics Program

THE FIRST CONSULTATION CAN BE INFORMATIVE AND REASSURING✓

Trubyte Patient Education Aids make it possible for you to show your patients, clearly and dramatically, what modern prosthetic dentistry can accomplish. When your patients see "Living Dentures," they will understand, perhaps for the first time, that the denture experience need not be associated with advancing age and declining vigor. The proper presentation of this beautiful new patient education book will contribute immeasurably to the process of psychological readjustment, and will enlist the patient cooperation so necessary to the final success of the restoration.

THE PRELIMINARY CHAIR WORK CAN BUILD PATIENT CONFIDENCE AND FACILITATE THE INITIAL STEPS OF THE DENTURE CREATION.

The Trubyte Bioform Professional Denture Service Unit can be invaluable to you and your patients. The Unit is an important aid to preliminary tooth selection and arrangement—equally important, perhaps, is its value in demonstrating to your patients the personalized and individualized character of your denture service. Your patients will understand what you are doing for them, and why.

THE TRY-IN CAN BE A MOMENT OF RELIEF AND GRATITUDE.

The first try-in of the completely successful restoration can be a richly rewarding experience for both you and your patient. Certainly, this experience is dependent primarily upon the application of your professional knowledge and skill to the problems of esthetic denture design. Yet many dentists have found that the Trubyte Bioform System of Tooth Selection and Arrangement, and the exclusive use of Trubyte

Bioform Teeth, are essential to consistently excellent results. This is because the Trubyte Bioform System is based upon over sixty years of continuing study of Nature's underlying principles as evidenced in the healthy, natural dentition, and because Trubyte Bioform Teeth provide the wide variety of natural tooth forms, and the radiant vitality of natural tooth shades, which simulate the beauty of living teeth.

Esthetics and Trubyte are inseparable. Your Trubyte Representative will show you how both Esthetics and Trubyte can build your prosthetic practice.
